Everyday Vigilance Basics

Do you want to feel and be safer in a world in which threats against women are increasing daily? Through true stories, practical demonstrations, and real-talk discussions we can't remain too uncomfortable to have, Shelley shares no-nonsense strategies and tactics for avoiding dangers and fighting through them when avoidance isn't possible.

In this empowering presentation tailored to the self-protection needs of female business professionals, Shelley identifies a wide variety of situations in which female travelers unknowingly make themselves vulnerable to predators, and offers vital insights and action steps for staying safe every step of the way.

Attendees will gain a level of confidence and calm that will allow them to feel secure in pursuing their business goals -- around a board table, at dinner with a client, or traveling alone.

This interactive presentation will give you the peace of mind to:

- Focus on closing more business deals, increasing income and meeting quotas
- Know you belong at the table and take on more responsibility to advance your career
- Enjoy your business travel destinations because you're comfortable leaving your hotel room
- Model vital vigilance behavior for friends, family and colleagues so they stay safe, too
