PREPARE • PREVENT • PROTECT

Shelley Klingerman is a successful entrepreneur, author, marketing professional, and documentary film producer who empowers women to take control over their personal safety.

After working on her film, Terror in American Schools: Are Your Kids Safe?, Klingerman began to understand the need to be vigilant and aware of her surroundings in every day situations. This sparked a passion to help others learn what they should be aware of when traveling and living their day-to-day lives, and how they can prepare and protect themselves. She shared her insights in her book, Vigilance: The Savvy Woman's Guide to Personal Safety, Self-Protection Measures, and Countermeasures.

Shelley is available for speaking engagements, workshops, and experiential learning programs (where she partners with law enforcement and military trainers to deliver an immersive experience in her Prepare-Prevent-Protect philosophy of personal safety).

Vigilance: The Savvy Woman's Guide to Personal Safety, Self-Protection Measures, and Countermeasures empowers women to develop the situational awareness and warrior mindset to avoid being victimized – and urges them to model safe behavior and pass it along to loved ones. It unpacks the emotional, mental and physical preparation critical to dissuading predators, and offers self-defense strategies to fend them off should they attack. You'll learn how to layer your self-protection measures and apply them to everyday situations, from air travel to riding in an Uber, from choosing a seat in a restaurant to checking into a hotel. You'll discover practical safety tips on walking with purpose and confidence, visualizing and rehearsing a crisis response well before a crisis occurs and, yes, understanding how to be a hostage who makes it out alive. Your guides include many top law-enforcement, self-defense and counter-terrorism officials who shared their experience and expertise with me to help you along this journey to Prepare, Prevent and Protect.
